Subject: Interfacing S-TEC autopilot components to non-S-TEC flight control computers

It has been brought to S-TECs attention that installation centers may be installing S-TEC autopilot components with other manufacturer's flight control computer and components. S-TEC has not tested the interface between our components with other manufacturer's flight control computers and therefore cannot validate the effects of the interface on S-TEC's components. With this in mind, any installation of another manufacturer's autopilot equipment not currently listed on S-TEC's FAA approved STC will void the warranty and future support of all S-TEC components installed (A Service Information Letter is forthcoming).

In addition, S-TEC will not knowingly sell new components and STC documents for interface to another manufacturer's autopilot equipment. We appreciate your support in helping us ensure our customers receive the support and warranty they deserve.
